Movement caliber of my C63 Valour – G10.202 AD or G10.212 AD?

寄件者： Daniella (Christopher Ward Support) (customerservices@christopherward.co.uk)

收件者：

日期： 2026年10月16日星期五 下午07:31 [GMT+8]

Daniella (Christopher Ward)
Oct 16, 2026, 12:31 GMT+1

Dear Leon,

Thank you for providing the detailed information about your C63 Valour, including the serial number and COSC certificate details.

The movement is the ETA G10.202 - I believe the difference between the two is regarding the date but would need to confirm this with the relevant department. Not all movements are available publically.

Please do let me know if there is anything else I can do for you.

Kind Regards,

Daniella

Customer Care Team Lead

Christopher Ward

The Yard, 14-18 Bell St, Maidenhead Berkshire

SL6 1BR

T: +44 (0)1628 763040

christopherward.com

Oct 14, 2026, 03:08 GMT+1

Hello Christopher Ward team,

I own a C63 Valour (SKU C63-39QCC3-S00K0, serial AEG-071, purchased July 2025) and have a question about its movement.

Your product page and the included manual (p.3) name the movement as ETA G10.202 AD COSC. However, ETA's own catalogue and every public database I could find list only the ETA G10.212 AD, and your launch specifications in March–April 2024 also said G10.212 AD COSC. The specs on your page match the G10.212 AD exactly. I could not find any G10.202 in ETA's public catalogue.

Could you please confirm:

1. Which caliber is actually fitted to my watch, G10.212 AD or G10.202 AD?
2. If it is G10.202 AD, is that a different or customised version of the G10.212 AD, and what is the difference?
3. If it is G10.212 AD, will you correct the product page and manual?

For reference, my COSC certificate shows collective certificate STS No. 2258548, dated 07-08-2024, movement no. 00000767.
Thank you very much for your help.

Kind regards,

TAIWAN

Daniella (Christopher Ward)
Oct 16, 2026, 12:31 GMT+1

Dear Leon,

Thank you for providing the detailed information about your C63 Valour, including the serial number and COSC certificate details.

The movement is the ETA G10.202 - I believe the difference between the two is regarding the date but would need to confirm this with the relevant department. Not all movements are available publically.

Please do let me know if there is anything else I can do for you.

Kind Regards,

Daniella

Customer Care Team Lead

Christopher Ward

The Yard, 14-18 Bell St, Maidenhead Berkshire

SL6 1BR

T: +44 (0)1628 763040

christopherward.com

How nice was my reply?

Measuring Customer Satisfaction with Nicereply

This email is a service from Christopher Ward. Delivered by Zendesk